Any former service man may register with this bureau at the Paper Maker's Club, 300 Grand Ave. The society makes no charge, either to members or non-members of the organization, the presentation of discharge papers being all that is required.

The national headquarters of the World War Veterans at Minneapolis opened a free employment bureau some time ago, and in a few days over one thousand ex-service men had registered. Since that time other posts have adopted the same plan in an effort to aid the thousands of former soldiers throughout the country who are now unemployed.

It would help greatly in pushing along the work here if employers wanting men would cooperate by notifying the bueau office at the Paper Maker's Club.

STANDARD OIL CO. TO HAVE NEW PLACE

The Standard Oil Co. through J. E. Monegan, assistant manager of the LaCrosse branch, announced the leasing of a piece of property on the corner of Oak and Third street south from J. E. Actual operations will not be started on the property before January first, it was said.

Have New Type

The new station will be a big improvement over the west side station, Mr. Monegan explained. It will be of newer and more attractive architecture and the driveways and pumps will be so arranged as to make possible better service to the company's patrons.

Mr. Monegan said that the station would be of brick and keilastone stucco construction, would be similar to the new stations at Menominee, LaCrosse and Winona and Eau Claire. Attractive landscape gardening will also be a feature of the new station.

Daly to Build Garage

Along with the announcement of the Standard Oil Co. J. E. Daly, who owns the property on which the Standard company will build, announces his intention of erecting a one story building for storage purposes on the lot adjacent to the new station. The garage will be designed to house about ten or twelve cars. Mr. Daly has contemplated the work for some time but has not made definite plans until today. He says that the building will be completed some time in the spring.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE HEARS TALK BY MISS E. MINAHAN

FORMER WISCONSIN RAPIDS TEACHER TELLS OF VOTERS OBLIGATIONS; ATTY. B. R. GOGGINS TALKS ON WOMEN JURIES

Miss Ellen Minahan, former Wisconsin Rapids public school teacher and former Milwaukee educator, now prominent lecturer on women's affairs was speaker at the noonday luncheon of the League of Women Voters of Wisconsin Rapids at the Hotel Witter. Miss Minahan speaking on the subject of "What Can the League of Women Voters Accomplish", stated that the association was non-partisan, interpartisan and pan-partisan. She explained that it was woman's duty to care for her home, but she stated that the home should be more than the limitations of the front yard and the house itself. "Men and women should work together in terms of prevention and not for correction. The purpose of the League of Women Voters is to educate the voter to read his own ballot," she said.

Praises Policewomen

Policewomen were praised by Miss Minahan. She said that the male members of the force usually objected to their presence because the women were more conscientious than their brother officers. She also urged the women to attend council meetings saying "Aldermen after they have become educated and used to the women attending council meetings will welcome their presence there."

Miss Minahan cirticized the people of Wisconsin Rapids and the city officials for allowing a local motion picture house to show "Night Life in New York" which she described as a very degrading picture and a bad influence of both children and grown-ups. She advocated censorship and said that in smaller centers the people themselves should speak to the theater management whenever improper pictures were shown.

Atty. B. R. Goggins was another speaker on the program. He explained that the women jury idea had long been practiced in the west and that the enfranchisement of women now should make it more obligatory for women to serve on juries instead of being excused as they may do now. In the west Mr. Goggins explained, the women served faithfully and well on juries and the plan was entirely satisfactory. He told his audience that he has seen as many as six to eight women on a jury in the west. "Women should not be known as jury women but jurymen," he said.

Roosevelt's Early Letters Throw Light On Character

New York, Oct. 27—Three letters in the handwriting of Theodore Roosevelt, presented recently to the Roosevelt Memorial Association, throw interesting light on the early character of the future President whose birthday will be celebrated tomorrow throughout the country.

The great American's modesty as a young man, verging nearly on timidity, is disclosed in a note accepting the offer of a trusteeship of the New York Infant Asylum. The letter was written to Dr. Henry D. Nicoll, then head of the asylum in 1881, the year when Roosevelt, then 23 years old, took his seat in the state assembly.

His "absolute inexperience," Roosevelt wrote, would prevent his "being of much use," but, with a determination also evidenced in another letter to Dr. Nicoll, he promised to "try my best."

Ten months later, in 1882, he wrote Dr. Nicoll again, expressing pleasure in accepting the position as trustee, but adding:

"I only fear that I will by no means come up to your expectations. But I shall do my best."

Roosevelt's early love for outdoor life, a characteristic which had much to do with the molding of his later life, and his admiration for picturesque characters in frontier history, come to the front in the third letter, written in 1890 to Richard Watson Gilder, editor of Century Magazine.

The letter is in a nervous, hasty script and was written from Washington, where Roosevelt was holding his first federal office, that of Civil Service Commissioner.

In it he appealed to Mr. Gilder to have a biography or sketch of Kit Carson's life written and pointed out that Carson and his comrades were "men of real mark" and their work "of utmost consequence and should not be allowed to be forgotten"—the same appeal now being sent out broadcast by the Roosevelt Memorial Association for contributions to perpetuate the memory of Theodore Roosevelt.

He suggested that Mr. Gilder obtain an article on civil service reform from "Cabot Lodge," who, he said, was "a man of note, and a rising one in his party."

At that time Senator Lodge was a representative in Congress. At Roosevelt's suggestion the articles were written by Mr. Lodge in the magazine during that and the following year.

In 1890, Roosevelt was a prolific writer of stories of hunting and of wild animal life and he concluded his letter in the spirit of the literary freelance, keen to sell his stories.

"I will buckle down to the three hunting articles for bear, moose, panther, etc., and I will bring in the 'Turk' story, he wrote, and added the suggestion, "My bear scrape would, I think, make a good picture, if you thought it worth while; also the death of the mountain lion, and of the bull moose."

The two Nicoll letters were presented to the Roosevelt Memorial Association by Mrs. Henry D. Nicoll and the Gilder letter by the publishers of Century Magazine.

TO HOLD CHARLES PENDING DECISION

ALLIED COUNCIL WILL DECIDE FINAL ABODE; LITTLE ENTENTE MAKES DEMANDS UPON HUNGARY

(By Asosciated Press)

Paris, Oct. 27—The Allied Council of Ambassadors today decided that former emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, and the ex-empress Zita, be immediately placed aboard a British cruiser in the Danube, pending the meeting of the council Saturday, at which time it is expected that final disposition of the royal pair will be made.

No definite information as to the ultimate fate of Charles has been given out. Reports from authoritative sources, however, indicate that it is the intention of the allied governments to place him where it will be possible for him to return to Hungary. London has been suggested as a suitable residence for the former, inasmuch as he could be kept there under the surveilance of the British police authorities, yet wold not have to be confined a a prisoner.

London, Oct. 27—The Little Entente composed of Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia, and Jugo-Slavia, dipatched a note to Hungary last night demanding the surrender of the former Emperor Charles, the demobilization of the Hungarian army, and reparations sufficient to defray the expenses of the Little Entente mobilization. Unless Hungary replies satisfactorily within two days, troops of the Entente will invade the country, according to dispatches received here from Vienna.

POINT WATER COMPANY TO CHANGE FIRE CHARGE

FORBID STRIKE IF SETTLEMENT EFFORTS FUTILE

UNION LEADERS AND RAIL HEADS ADAMANT AS BOARD MEMBERS STRIVE TO EFFECT COMPROMISE

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Oct. 27—The Railroad Labor Board will finally and definitely forbid the strike if the present conference fails to effect a settlement. This was brought out in an informal discussion of the situation by members of the board today. If the unions and railroad executives cannot be brought to accept any form of settlement, the final ruling of the board will include the following points:

1. That the impending walkout must not be called.

2. That the walkout if called is in violation of the transportation act.

3. That the board will regard the strike, if called for any purpose other than dissatisfaction with the July decision of the board as a conspiracy to paralyze transportation.

4. That the members of "Big Five" and the telegraphers unions remain at work, relying upon the board to safeguard them from further encroachments possibly contemplated by the roads.

Leaders Defiant

With the brotherhood leaders defiant, and the railroad executives refusing to commit themselves to any compromise, Ben W. Hooper, member of the railroad labor board, went into a final conference with the presidents and general chairmen of the executive committees of the five big unions.

Hooper it was expected would make a final plea on behalf of the government for the calling off of the strike. The basis of this plea, it was reported, would be a guarantee that neither further wage cut nor changes in the working rules would be considered until the cases now pending were disposed of.

Lee For Peace

Hooper was accompanied by A. F. Whitney, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. His presence led to reports that W. G. Lee, president of the trainmen, was backing the peace meeting proposed by Walter L. McMenimen, labor member of the Railroad Labor Board, and former official of the trainmen's union. McMenimen's suggestion was for a new meeting of union leaders with the railroad executives.

Hooper left the conference shortly after noon. He said that the strike had not been settled yet, and that a settlement could hardly be expected while he was at the meeting.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27—Repeal of the excess profits taxes, effective Jan. 1, 1922, was approved by the senate today after two additional amendments seeking its retention in a modified form were rejected. Following action on the excess profits tax section the senate entered into a unanimous consent agreement for a vote at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on amendments to the section which increases the present flat tax on corporation earnings from 10 per cent to 15 per cent to make up for the loss in revenue which will be caused by the repeal of the excess profits tax.

Both of the amendments to the excess profits tax section which were defeated were offered by Senator Reed of Missouri, Democrat.

Among senators who defended the excess profits tax in speeches were Senators LaFollette, Republican, and Simmons, Owen, Trammel, and Reed, Democrats.

She also urged the women to attend council meetings saying "Aldermen after they have become educated and used to the women attending council meetings will welcome their presence there."

Miss Minahan cirticized the people of Wisconsin Rapids and the city officials for allowing a local motion picture house to show "Night Life in New York" which she described as a very degrading picture and a bad influence of both children and grown-ups. She advocated censorship and said that in smaller centers the people themselves should speak to the theater management whenever improper pictures were shown.

Atty. B. R. Goggins was another speaker on the program. He explained that the women jury idea had long been practiced in the west and that the enfranchisement of women now should make it more obligatory for women to serve on juries instead of being excused as they may do now. In the west Mr. Goggins explained, the women served faithfully and well on juries and the plan was entirely satisfactory. He told his audience that he has seen as many as six to eight women on a jury in the west. "Women should not be known as jury women but jurymen," he said.

Roosevelt's Early Letters Throw Light On Character

New York, Oct. 27—Three letters in the handwriting of Theodore Roosevelt, presented recently to the Roosevelt Memorial Association, throw interesting light on the early character of the future President whose birthday will be celebrated tomorrow throughout the country.

The great American's modesty as a young man, verging nearly on timidity, is disclosed in a note accepting the offer of a trusteeship of the New York Infant Asylum. The letter was written to Dr. Henry D. Nicoll, then head of the asylum in 1881, the year when Roosevelt, then 23 years old, took his seat in the state assembly.

His "absolute inexperience," Roosevelt wrote, would prevent his "being of much use," but, with a determination also evidenced in another letter to Dr. Nicoll, he promised to "try my best."

Ten months later, in 1882, he wrote Dr. Nicoll again, expressing pleasure in accepting the position as trustee, but adding:

"I only fear that I will by no means come up to your expectations. But I shall do my best."

Roosevelt's early love for outdoor life, a characteristic which had much to do with the molding of his later life, and his admiration for picturesque characters in frontier history, come to the front in the third letter, written in 1890 to Richard Watson Gilder, editor of Century Magazine.

The letter is in a nervous, hasty script and was written from Washington, where Roosevelt was holding his first federal office, that of Civil Service Commissioner.

In it he appealed to Mr. Gilder to have a biography or sketch of Kit Carson's life written and pointed out that Carson and his comrades were "men of real mark" and their work "of utmost consequence and should not be allowed to be forgotten"—the same appeal now being sent out broadcast by the Roosevelt Memorial Association for contributions to perpetuate the memory of Theodore Roosevelt.

He suggested that Mr. Gilder obtain an article on civil service reform from "Cabot Lodge," who, he said, was "a man of note, and a rising one in his party."

At that time Senator Lodge was a representative in Congress. At Roosevelt's suggestion the articles were written by Mr. Lodge in the magazine during that and the following year.

In 1890, Roosevelt was a prolific writer of stories of hunting and of wild animal life and he concluded his letter in the spirit of the literary freelance, keen to sell his stories.

"I will buckle down to the three hunting articles for bear, moose, panther, etc., and I will bring in the 'Turk' story, he wrote, and added the suggestion, "My bear scrape would, I think, make a good picture, if you thought it worth while; also the death of the mountain bion, and of the bull moose."

The two Nicoll letters were presented to the Roosevelt Memorial Association by Mrs. Henry D. Nicoll and the Gilder letter by the publishers of Century Magazine.

TO HOLD CHARLES PENDING DECISION

ALLIED COUNCIL WILL DECIDE FINAL ABODE; LITTLE ENTENTE MAKES DEMANDS UPON HUNGARY

(By Asosciated Press)

Paris, Oct. 27—The Allied Council of Ambassadors today decided that former emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, and the ex-empress Zita, be immediately placed aboard a British cruiser in the Danube, pending the meeting of the council Saturday, at which time it is expected that final disposition of the royal pair will be made.

No definite information as to the ultimate fate of Charles has been given out. Reports from authoritative sources, however, indicate that it is the intention of the allied governments to place him where it will be possible for him to return to Hungary. London has been suggested as a suitable residence for the former, inasmuch as he could be kept there under the surveilance of the British police authorities, yet wold not have to be confined a a prisoner.

London, Oct. 27—The Little Entente composed of Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia, and Jugo-Slavia, dipatched a note to Hungary last night demanding the surrender of the former Emperor Charles, the demobilization of the Hungarian army, and reparations sufficient to defray the expenses of the Little Entente mobilization. Unless Hungary replies satisfactorily within two days, troops of the Entente will invade the country, according to dispatches received here from Vienna.

POINT WATER COMPANY TO CHANGE FIRE CHARGE

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27.—The Stevens Point water company was authorized to discontinue its present charge for fire protection and to charge an annual payment of $55 for each hydrant, by the railroad commission today. Previous charges had been on the amount of water used and was found to be an unsatisfactory method of determining costs.

Marinette—Ill in bed six months, George Heise, 30, while despondent, took a fatal dose of poison Tuesday at the farm home of his brother, Henry, near Marinette, and died before a doctor reached the house from Fond du Lac. Two brothers, Albert and Paul, Milwaukee, and a sister, Mathilda, Muirdale sanatorium, Wauwatosa, survive him.

FORBID STRIKE IF SETTLEMENT EFFORTS FUTILE

UNION LEADERS AND RAIL HEADS ADAMANT AS BOARD MEMBERS STRIVE TO EFFECT COMPROMISE

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Oct. 27—The Railroad Labor Board will finally and definitely forbid the strike if the present conference fails to effect a settlement. This was brought out in an informal discussion of the situation by members of the board today. If the unions and railroad executives cannot be brought to accept any form of settlement, the final ruling of the board will include the following points:

1. That the impending walkout must not be called.

2. That the walkout if called is in violation of the transportation act.

3. That the board will regard the strike, if called for any purpose other than dissatisfaction with the July decision of the board as a conspiracy to paralyze transportation.

4. That the members of "Big Five" and the telegraphers unions remain at work, relying upon the board to safeguard them from further encroachments possibly contemplated by the roads.

Leaders Defiant

With the brotherhood leaders defiant, and the railroad executives refusing to commit themselves to any compromise, Ben W. Hooper, member of the railroad labor board, went into a final conference with the presidents and general chairmen of the executive committees of the five big unions.

Hooper it was expected would make a final plea on behalf of the government for the calling off of the strike. The basis of this plea, it was reported, would be a guarantee that neither further wage cut nor changes in the working rules would be considered until the cases now pending were disposed of.

Lee For Peace

Hooper was accompanied by A. F. Whitney, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. His presence led to reports that W. G. Lee, president of the trainmen, was backing the peace meeting proposed by Walter L. McMenimen, labor member of the Railroad Labor Board, and former official of the trainmen's union. McMenimen's suggestion was for a new meeting of union leaders with the railroad executives.

Hooper left the conference shortly after noon. He said that the strike had not been settled yet, and that a settlement could hardly be expected while he was at the meeting.

SENATE VOTES EXCESS PROFIT TAXES REPEAL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27—Repeal of the excess profits taxes, effective Jan. 1, 1922, was approved by the senate today after two additional amendments seeking its retention in a modified form were rejected. Following action on the excess profits tax section the senate entered into a unanimous consent agreement for a vote at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on amendments to the section which increases the present flat tax on corporation earnings from 10 per cent to 15 per cent to make up for the loss in revenue which will be caused by the repeal of the excess profits tax.

Both of the amendments to the excess profits tax section which were defeated were offered by Senator Reed of Missouri, Democrat.

Among senators who defended the excess profits tax in speeches were Senators LaFollette, Republican, and Simmons, Owen, Traminel, and Reed, Democrats.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS.

"To my way of thinking, of the games of the different nations, from the Eskimo down to the tropics, tennis, golf, hockey, bull-fighting—of all these base ball is the least interesting and the most silly, and how people can line up for tickets all night is something only insanity can explain." This characteristically mild and courteous comment on the national game of America is contributed to the New York Herald by one who signs himself "Englishman." It will be noticed that for purpose of comparison he makes no mention of cricket, England's national obsession.

An American recently returned from that country says he can now understand Kippling's classic reference to "the flanneled fools of the wicket, the muddied oafs at the goal." He says the mad devotion of the English people to outdoor sports has evoked grave warnings from thoughtful publicists that unless more attention is paid to business the country will be ruined. The frenzied reception given the Australian cricket team in England the past summer was said to have equalled any popular tributes to heroes of the war. For weeks, we are told, it seemed as if the English people could put their minds on no other subject than the cricket matches. Our fellow countryman expresses the moderate, restrained opinion that cricket and the enthusiasm it evokes are a form of lunacy deserving investigation and classification by professional alienists.

There is no accounting for national any more than individual tastes. In France the exhilarating, graceful duel is the popular outdoor pastime. In Germany it is the weight lifting contest in the beer gardens, capacious steins being employed for the purpose. In Russia it is chasing the Bourgeois to his lair. In Japan it is hari-kari. The Mexican sport is seeing how many revolutions the government can make in an hour. America's particular form of insanity may be baseball, but it might have been far worse. Thus far our nation has shown practically no symptoms of cricket.

Somehow the world was inclined to respect her, her obscurity, her reticence, her withdrawal from the spotlight. Five years is a long time. Katti Schratt is poor. A million crowns for the letters, said one publishing house! And the offer has mounted steadily. Vast sums for her memoirs! A fortune for her to enact one scene—just one scene—for the motion picture camera, fulfilling some incident in the late monarch's life.

Katti Schratt refuses. She will bring no aid to the scenario of her friend's life. She will reveal her heart in no memoirs. The letters perish with her. All praise to her. For if "friend" she was, friend she remains, with a loyalty all the world can respect. Let the dead rest.

PRODUCTIVE ADVERTISING

There are three "Beware" in the primer of every editor, reporter and aspiring newspaper worker. Where they came from we don't know and we know less of what they mean to convey. They are: "Beware of religion; beware of saying anything good about big corporations; beware of mentioning bad things about them when they pay for it." Beware of this newspaper knocks where it stands on religion and corporations. We care for them when they do more good than harm. We oppose them when they oppose human progress and retard human happiness.

This is about both a corporation and an advertiser—a big advertiser, the Standard Oil Company. A great change has come over the Standard Oil Company in recent years. It is no longer afraid of its own shadow. It is not ashamed to tell who owns it, what its business methods are, what its products are and what it hopes to do. The story is being told in friendly and unfriendly papers without fear or favor, embarrassment or compunction in paid advertising space.

Of course a newspaper would naturally agree to this method of publicity. But we are not thinking of the dollars just now. We are thinking of how much further we would have progressed in the solution of many of our economic and industrial difficulties if more light had been thrown upon the inner workings of the offensives and defensives in such disputes as involve the public at large.

The series of advertisements which have been and are being published by the Standard Oil Company have become economic arguments which carry a message. We are not so pleased with them but what we realize that they put the company's best foot forward. To what extent they have sold measure is a matter for their advertising department to decide, but it is certain that they have sold to the public a large measure of good will which the Standard Oil Company did not possess not so very long ago.

Having committed this breach of saying something good about an advertiser, we will now shut our eyes and wait for the catastrophe that is bound to occur according to the law of primeval journalism.

THE above editorial is refreshing to those who are responsible for the policies of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

When in October, 1918, the present management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) took charge of the business, one of the first things it decided was that the public should be given intimate information regarding the Company and its affairs. Those responsible for the management knew that the policies that had animated this organization for many years were policies which benefitted stockholders, employes, and the public, and that these policies could not but meet the approval of the people generally, for they were based on fair dealing, justice and equity.

The result of this decision was the authorization of a widespread publicity campaign, which has been carried on for about three years, and the proof of its effectiveness is to be seen not only in the not infrequent mention being made by the newspapers of the country in editorals such as the one written by Mr. Johnson, quoted above, but in the better understanding on the part of the public of what the Company is trying to do.

The basic principle upon which the business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is built is to provide the individual, wherever he may live in the 11 states served by this Company, with such products of petroleum as he may need, and to get them to him when he wants them and at a price which is fair alike to the stockholders, the public, and the competitor.

Professor T. A. Jaggar, Jr., United States Government volcanologist on the island, and Lorrin A. Thurston, publisher of the Honolulu Advertiser, proposed that the road be built some time ago, and they have enlisted the aid of Stephen Mather, director of the National Park service, who has promised his cooperation, the letter said.

Construction of the road will mean that tourists and inhabitants of the islands will be able to travel from Hexolulu to the crater of Mauna Loa in twenty-four hours, it is said.

Mr. A. P. Johnson, Publisher of the News, Grand Rapids, Michigan, in his issue of Oct. 13, prints the following:

PRODUCTIVE ADVERTISING

There are three "Bewares" in the primer of every editor, reporter and aspiring newspaper worker. Where they came from we don't know and we know less of what they mean to convey. They are. "Beware of religion; beware of saying anything good about big corporations; beware of mentioning advertisers except when they pay for it." Readers of this newspaper know where it stands on religion and corporations. We are for them when they do more good than harm. We oppose them when they oppose human progress and retard human happiness.

This is about hell a corporation and an advertiser—a big advertiser, the Standard Oil Company. A great change has come over the Standard Oil Company in recent years. It is no longer afraid of its own shadow. It is no longer afraid to tell who owns it, what its business methods are, what its products are and what it hopes to do. The story is being told in friendly and unfriendly papers without fear or favor, embarrassment or compunction in paid advertising space.

Of course a newspaper would naturally agree to this method of publicity. But we are not thinking of the dollars just now. We are thinking of how much further we would have progressed in the solution of many of our economic and industrial difficulties if more light had been thrown upon the inner workings of the offensives and defensives in such disputes as involve the public at large.

The series of advertisements which have been and are being published by the Standard Oil Company have become economic arguments which carry a message. We are not so pleased with them but what we realize that they put the company's best foot forward. To what extent they have sold gasoline is a matter for their advertising department to decide, but it is certain that they have sold to the public a large measure of good will which the Standard Oil Company did not possess not so very long ago.

Having committed this breach of saying something good about an advertiser, we will now shut our eyes and wait for the catastrophe that is bound to occur according to the law of primeval journalism.

THE above editorial is refreshing to those who are responsible for the policies of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

When in October, 1918, the present management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) took charge of the business, one of the first things it decided was that the public should be given intimate information regarding the Company and its affairs. Those responsible for the management knew that the policies that had animated this organization for many years were policies which benefitted stockholders, employes, and the public, and that these policies could not but meet the approval of the people generally, for they were based on fair dealing, justice and equity.

The result of this decision was the authorization of a widespread publicity campaign, which has been carried on for about three years, and the proof of its effectiveness is to be seen not only in the not infrequent mention being made by the newspapers of the country in editorals such as the one written by Mr. Johnson, quoted above, but in the better understanding on the part of the public of what the Company is trying to do.

The basic principle upon which the business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is built is to provide the individual, wherever he may live in the 11 states served by this Company, with such products of petroleum as he may need, and to get them to him when he wants them and at a price which is fair alike to the stockholders, the public, and the competitor.

"But, Julia—"

"Mr. Crum is a charming young man," she continued, with the same primness. "I liked him very much. I liked him very much indeed. I liked him very, very much. I liked him very—"

"I understand," he interrupted. "Don't say it any more, Julia."

"No; you don't understand. At first I liked him very much—in fact I still do, of course—I'm sure he's one of the best and most attractive young men in the world. I think he's a man any girl ought to be happy with, if he were only to be considered by himself. I don't deny that I liked him very much indeed, and I don't deny that for several days after he—after he proposed to me—I don't deny I thought something serious might possibly come of it. But at that time, Noble, I hadn't—hadn't really thought of what it meant to give up living here at home, with all the family and everything—and friends—friends like you, Noble. I hadn't thought what it would mean to me to give all this up. And besides, there was something very important. At the time I wrote that letter mentioning poor Mr. Crum to the family, Noble, I hadn't—I hadn't—" She paused, in some distress. "I hadn't—"

"You hadn't what?" he cried.

"I hadn't met his mother!"

Noble leaped to his feet. "Julia! You aren't—you aren't engaged?"

"I am not," she answered decisively. "If I ever was, in the slightest, I certainly am not now."

Poor Noble was transfigured. He struggled: making half-formed gestures, speaking half-made words.

"Julia—Julia—" He choked: "Julia, promise me something? Julia—promise to promise me something."

"I will," she said quickly. "What do you want me to do?"

"Give me your word," he said, still radiantly struggling. "Give me your word—your word and sacred promise, Julia—you'll never be engaged to anybody at all!"

At six minutes after four o'clock of the second afternoon following Julia's return, Noble Dill closed his own gate behind him as he set forth upon the four-minute walk that would bring him to Julia's. He wore a bit of indoor geranium in the buttonhole of his new light overcoat.

Passing the foot of an alley which debouched upon the street, he was aware of a commotion, of missiles hurled and voices clashed.

Casting a glance that way, Noble could see but one person: a boy of thirteen or fourteen who looked through a crack in a board fence steadfastly keeping an eye to this aperture, and as continuously calling through it, holding his head to one level for this purpose, but at the same time dancing—and dancing tauntingly. It was conveyed—with the other parts of his body. His voice was now sweet, now piercing, and again far too dulcet with the overkindness of burlesque: and if, as it seemed, he was unburdening his spleen, his spleen was a powerful one, and gorged. He appeared to be in a torment of tormenting; and his success was proved by the pounding of bricks, and rocks of size, upon the other side of the fence.

"Oh, dolling!" he wailed, his tone poisonously amorous. "Oh, dolling Henery! Oo's dor do mos' booful eyes in a dray bid nasty world, Henery! Oh, has I dot booful eyes, dolling Puttywatty? Yes, I has! I has dot pretty eyes!" His voice rose to an unbearably piercing climax. "Oh, what preettest eyes I dot! Me and Herbie Atwater! Oh, my booful eyes! Oh, my booful—"

BELOIT YOUTH SUFFERS FROM STRANGE MALADY

Albany, Wis.—Charles Keller, a Beloit youth employed on the Leo Gillett farm near here, fell a victim to a disease resembling sleeping sickness.

The youth was found in the cornfield, asleep, and since has been in a semi-conscious condition, except for a short time when he was revived by K. P. Paffle.

Keller was removed to his home in Beloit.

"But, Julia—"

"Mr. Crum is a charming young man," she continued, with the same primness. "I liked him very much. I liked him very much indeed. I liked him very, very much. I liked him very—"

"I understand," he interrupted. "Don't say it any more, Julia."

"No; you don't understand. At first I liked him very much—in fact I still do, of course—I'm sure he's one of the best and most attractive young men in the world. I think he's a man any girl ought to be happy with, if he were only to be considered by himself. I don't deny that I liked him very much indeed, and I don't deny that for several days after he—after he proposed to me—I don't deny I thought something serious might possibly come of it. But at that time, Noble, I hadn't—hadn't really thought of what it meant to give up living here at home, with all the family and everything—and friends—friends like you, Noble. I hadn't thought what it would mean to me to give all this up. And besides, there was something very important. At the time I wrote that letter mentioning poor Mr. Crum to the family, Noble, I hadn't—I hadn't—" She paused, in some distress. "I hadn't—"

"You hadn't what?" he cried.

"I hadn't met his mother!"

Noble leaped to his feet. "Julia! You aren't—you aren't engaged?"

"I am not," she answered decisively. "If I ever was, in the slightest, I certainly am not now."

Poor Noble was transfigured. He struggled; making half-formed gestures, speaking half-made words.

"Julia—Julia—" He choked: "Julia, promise me something? Julia—promise to promise me something."

"I will," she said quickly. "What do you want me to do?"

"Give me your word," he said, still radiantly struggling. "Give me your word—your word and sacred promise, Julia—you'll never be engaged to anybody at all!"

At six minutes after four o'clock of the second afternoon following Julia's return, Noble Dill closed his own gate behind him as he set forth upon the four-minute walk that would bring him to Julia's. He wore a bit of indoor geranium in the buttonhole of his new light overcoat.

Passing the foot of an alley which debouched upon the street, he was aware of a commotion, of missiles hurled and voices clashed.

Casting a glance that way, Noble could see but one person; a boy of thirteen or fourteen who looked through a crack in a board fence, steadfastly keeping an eye to this aperture, and as continuously calling through it, holding his head to one level for this purpose, but at the same time dancing—and dancing tauntingly, it was conveyed—with the other parts of his body. His voice was now sweet, now piercing, and again far too dulcet with the overkindness of burlesque; and if, as it seemed, he was unburdening his spleen, his spleen was a powerful one, and gorged. He appeared to be in a torment of tormenting; and his success was proved by the pounding of bricks, and rocks of size, upon the other side of the fence.

"Oh, dolling!" he wailed, his tone poisonously amorous. "Oh, dolling Henery! Oo's dot de mos' booful eyes in a dray bid nasty world, Henery! Oh, has I dot booful eyes, dolling Pattywatty? Yes, I has! I has dot pretty eyes!" His voice rose to an unbearably piercing climax. "Oh, what prettiest eyes I dot! Me and Herbie Atwater! Oh, my booful eyes! Oh, my booful—"

BELOIT YOUTH SUFFERS FROM STRANGE MALADY

Albany, Wis.—Charles Keller, a Beloit youth employed on the Lee Gillett farm near here, fell a victim to a disease resembling sleeping sickness.

The youth was found in the cornfield, asleep, and since has been in a semi-conscious condition, except for a short time when he was revived by K. P. Paffle.

Keller was removed to his home in Beloit.

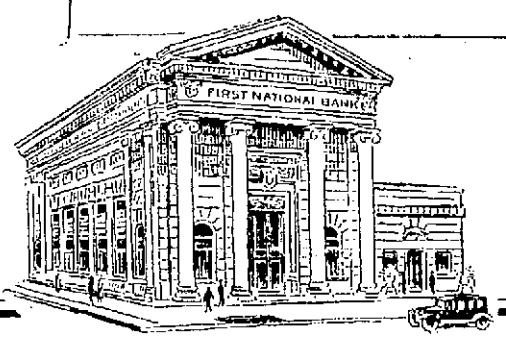
whose wages were greater than gold

LABORING in loneliness, enduring hazards and hardships undreamed of by us, strong young woodsmen brought the forests to earth and built their cabin homes beside our rapids . . . that we, their heirs, might own and enjoy the bounties of this rich land.

The crash of falling timber and the sing of a solitary sawmill has given place to the hum and hurry of a modern city. Capital and commerce, building upon the foundation laid by those courageous pioneers, brought the comforts and culture we prize. We are heirs of an indomitable spirit, possessors of present prosperity, made debtors in turn to the progress of the future.

As the first to offer financial support, the constant partner and incentive to individual and civic advancement, the First National Bank is a part of these inherited resources, modernized and increased in facilities for turning dollars into capital and helping capital to grow. Use them all more intimately . . . checking, savings, loans and financial service departments . . . and know the full power of this deep-rooted, friendly bank backing.



The FIRST NATIONAL BANK of WISCONSIN RAPIDS

Studebaker

This is a Studebaker Year

For the first eight months of 1921, our sales of Studebaker Cars were 41% greater than for the same period of 1920, and 101% greater than for the same period of 1919. For the same period, our sales of Repair Parts were 13% less than in 1920, and 3% less than in 1919.

On September 1st, 1921, there were approximately 116,000 more Studebaker Cars in operation than two years ago, and yet our parts business is 3% less than it was in 1919. This proves conclusively that—

Studebaker Cars are standing up in service and staying out of repair shops, to a degree unexcelled, we believe, by any cars of whatever price.

The Studebaker Corporation of America.

Valdura Asphalt Paint

is made from genuine Gilsonite 99.5% pure Asphalt and is sold with the distinct understanding that your purchase money will be refunded if at any time you feel it has not rendered you proper service. That's a pretty strong guarantee, but the paint warrants it.

VALDURA has remarkable covering capacity, is easy to apply, comes all ready for use, just dip in your brush and paint. It won't run in the hottest weather and it won't crack in the cold weather. On the basis of cost-per-year-of-service, it has no competitor. All sized containers from 1 Gal. cans up.

Would you like to test it to prove these claims? You may have a sample can free and the VALDURA Booklet telling you more about it in detail.

"PUSSYFOOT" JOHNSON WELCOMED BY HINDUS

Delhi, India—William E. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson, the American anti-saloon crusader who lost an eye in trying to dry up the British Isles, is getting another kind of a reception in India. Moslem and Hindu, thousands of them in the past two weeks, have rendered Johnson honors rarely shown to any person short of royalty. Indian journalists describe the American's entry into this ancient capital somewhat as Thomas Moore in "Lalla Rookh" pictures the brilliant and triumphant arrival of the Sultan of Bucharia to claim the heart and hand of Aurungzebe.

Mr. Johnson has been lavishly entertained by the Thakur Sahib of Limbri and other ruling princes and has been the recipient of numerous gifts. These include a chest of jewels and a gold watch, containing one Prince's phonograph and his engraved coat-of-arms inlaid in regal purple enamel. At Jaipur a delegation of leading citizens came to the train at 2 o'clock in the morning and begged Johnson's secretary to permit them to enter his car and gaze at the sleeping form of Robin Hops and John Barleycorn. The request was granted and "Pussyfoot" did not know of the affair until breakfast.

MAKE ARRANGEMENTS FOR EQUITY MEETING

Madison, Wis.—Arrangements for the convention of the Wisconsin union of the Equity Society of America to be held at Eau Claire November 29 to December 2 are now completed, E. C. Pommerening, state president, said today following a meeting of the board of directors.

Credentials for the convention from local societies are reported to be arriving at the office here, indicating a large attendance. Mr. Pommerening says, despite unfavorable financial conditions in agriculture. Harry Hartke of Covington, Kentucky, president of the Cincinnati Milk Producers association, will make the principal address at the Eau Claire meeting.

J. A. Hogan, a member of the state board of directors, resigned at the meeting held here. His resignation has not yet been acted on.

W. T. McCaskey, new business manager, appeared before the directors with new business contracts which will be entered into when he assumes control November 1, to succeed H. E. Holmes. He is making plans for extension of the oil station service of the Equity society, which it is planned to establish throughout the state.

STATE LEADS FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Madison, Wis.—This state is now said to lead the nation in tuberculosis eradication work among dairy cattle, in the quarterly report of the state department of agriculture, a fact which the department declares to be of inestimable value to the live stock interests in Wisconsin.

During the summer months the demand for service by the breeders is said to have been constant, and the force of inspectors inadequate to meet the demand on the part of herd owners for test of their cattle. Stabling live stock for the winter is reported to greatly have increased the demand for tuberculin testing, until there are over 1000 applications filed with the department asking for service which it has been unable to render.

Wisconsin is said to have led the nation during the past quarter with 1369 fully accredited herds composed of 29,091 cattle, 1358 once tested herds composed of 36,004 cattle, and 3224 herds under supervision with 78,275 cattle.

While the past legislature provided increased funds for handling the tuberculin testing work, it is said to have grown so greatly in volume that the department is unable to meet the demands made on it for service.

PLAN EXPOSITION

Green Bay—Plans for the second annual Jobbers' and Manufacturers' exposition to be held in Green Bay in February were tentatively agreed on at a meeting of the directors of the Jobber' division of the Association of Commerce.

It is thought that the exposition will be held in the armory, but if the Jean Nicolet auditorium, which has been started, is completed by this time it is planned to hold the show there.

SELL OUT LIVERY

Janeville—The last livery barn in Janesville is to be sold at auction. Nov. 5. "Twentyfive years ago the livery business was at its best" Horatio Nelson, who has conducted a livery stable here since 1883 said. "We made money with the horses and had as high as 25 livery horses at one time, but it is a losing business now."

SCREAMED IN PAIN BEFORE KOZAK CAME TO HER AID

"I actually walked downtown to the Boston Store for the first time since last Fall. Kozak made this possible. As before taking this remarkable medicine I was a miserable sufferer from sciatic rheumatism in its worst form."

Thus spoke Mrs. Gustav Glaeser, 86 14th St., Milwaukee. "Words cannot express my gratitude for Kozak. Why, some night I would scream and pound my fists against the bedstead in agony. What felt like electric shocks darted through my back and left side. The pain and aches in my left limb and hip were terrific. For 5 weeks I couldn't walk a step. Recently I read about what Kozak was accomplishing for so many Milwaukeeans so I got a bottle. Today I do all my own housework, sleep fine, eat heartily and feel strong. The rheumatism has entirely left me." Kozak is sold only by Sam Church; Milladore, Malik Co.; Necedah, Daly; Nekoosa, Denis; Pittsville, Dietz; Amherst, Boynton.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Mother Wants You to Play Safe With Health

Now is the season of the year when a cold is easily caught. Mother urges immediate attention of the right sort. The answer she gets is "what's a little cold?"

A little cold is nothing when it is given immediate attention. Chiropractic spinal adjustments will take it when it is little and erase it promptly. But if you allow it to run on without attention, you invite trouble. Cold is a sign of weakness. Unless you remove the cause of the weakness, the cold is slow to go and quick to come back.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments correct diseases of the head, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys and intestinal organs.

CALL RESOLUTION EXPELLING BLANTON

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 27.—The resolution for the expulsion from the house of representatives of congressman Thomas Blanton of Texas was called today by republican floor leader Mondell.

Acting democratic leader Garrett of Tennessee proposed a vote of censure instead of expulsion, after Blanton had made a dramatic defense of his action in inserting in the Congressional Record matter alleged to be objectionable.

FIND HIGH RENTS BIG HAWAIIAN VOLCANO

Shanghai—Hopes of effecting any reduction of inordinately high rents in Shanghai through legislative action have been dashed by an announcement of the Municipal Council holding that the council has no power to act on the question. This announcement was made in response to various proposals that have been made in recent months urging compulsory limitation of rental charges.

"It would appear," says the announcement, "that the remedy, sooner or later lies in the operation of the law of supply and demand, since if rentals are so high as to make building operations unduly profitable, the building of more houses will be speedily included until the supply is equal to or overtakes the demand."

gan to indict the member from Texas, who sat across the aisle on the second row of the democratic side. As he spoke in severe and condemnatory sentences of the action of Mr. Blanton, the latter sat unmoved. He kept nervously covering his eyes and listened without moving to the right or left.

Can Not Repeat Words

Mr. Mondell said in his indictment: "Unfortunately the subject matter forming the basis of the charge is of such a character that it cannot be presented on this floor. Were I to cite or even to offer a small portion of these words, I should myself be subject to expulsion. Any one speaking the words contained in the Congressional Record would be subject to fine and imprisonment, under the laws of the land.

"We can say no more in regard to the words upon which this charge is based than that they are unspeakable, vile, foul, filthy, profane, blasphemous and obscene.

"There is not a member who will not say that it is the vilest thing he has ever seen in print. Men do some things in anger, for which we forgive them. Men commit crimes under sudden uncontrollable impulses, for which we must be lenient.

"This crime against this house, its dignity, its honor, this crime against decency, against every law and usage of civilized man, was done deliberately, purposely, intentionally without either regard for the law, for the statutes, or for the honor of this house."

YALE WILL HAVE TRACK OF EXCLUSIVE DESIGN

New Haven, Conn.—As the new running track for the Yale track men on Yale Field nears completion, some of its features are apparent. The track is being constructed by the same men who built the bowl and, as in the case of the bowl certain things are claimed for it which are not possessed by any other track in the country. On the north side of this track will be an oval for the 440 yard run.

The track's advantage over all others used for inter-collegiates is all starters will be on a straightaway. The grandstand is so located that all races may finish at it except in the 220 dash.

The straightaway is 24 feet wide. The freshman football field will be in the center of the athletic field and on this the field events may be held and seen from the grand-stand. The new track will be ready next month.

The public is long-suffering, but any suggestion of tying up the railroads of the country draws its fire on the instant.

FRENCH FOOTBALL IS NOT ENTERTAINMENT

Paris—Football matches in France henceforth, will not come under the heading of entertainments but within the category of "physical and military education" French courts have ruled. Hitherto gate receipts of football matches have been uniformly subjected to the so-called poor-tax on entertainments. A test case, however, has just been made by the manager of the Toulouse Club who refused to turn in the usual ten per cent to the state and the court has decided that football was immune from the tax.

BADGERS STUDY GOPHER SHIFTS

Madison—With all gates closed to onlookers yesterday evening, the Wisconsin grid squad went through nearly two hours of grueling work against the freshmen and all-Americans. The yearlings again rammed through the Cardinal line with Minnesota plays, but not nearly as fiercely as in Monday's tilt with the varsity subs. After the freshies had been tried the powerful all-American eleven was brought on and Holmes and Barr alternated in smashing against the varsity. The line is rapidly learning to shift with the tricky formations of the Gophers, and although often Harris, Earke and Holmes of the opposition drove through behind their tackles, it was not long before Richards had the holes plugged. Gibson is quite seriously hurt and could not work in the scrimmage. He had been replaced by Rollie Williams, fast half-back, and Gould is at left half. With this combination in the backfield, either Horn or Irish gets a chance at the vacant left end job. Gibson may not be able even to start Saturday's game.

Richards is using his subs a lot during practice and will not be caught without alternates should any of the men be disabled in the homecoming affray. Schernecker, Gade, Nelson, Irons, Taft, Anderson, Barry, Kiessling and Kellogg will be kept ready to rush into the game any time that Dr. Williams' piledriver tactics become too much for a Badger forward.

Seats Sold Out

Seats for the homecoming football game between Wisconsin and Minnesota Saturday are all sold out, it was announced here Tuesday. If at all possible, a number of temporary bleachers will be erected and chairs placed on the track for the overflow crowd.

A new section of cement stand was finished this week for the biggest tilt of the season. It will hold about as many as the other cement stand. The wooden bleachers erected above it should accommodate about 5,000 additional rooters.

Robert Quick, ticket sales manager, announced Tuesday that only a few pasteboards would be on open sale this year. The remaining seats will of necessity be in the newly erected bleachers and stands above the regular stadium or at the ends of the field.

MINNESOTA BASKET MEN OPEN PRACTICE FOR WINTER SEASON

Minneapolis—Although not hopeful of winning the conference basketball championship this year, Dr. L. J. Cooke, coach of the Minnesota basketball team, was not disheartened by the size, or quality of the squad that reported to him for the first drill of the year.

Forty men, including several regulars and many substitutes of last year's team, were on the armory floor to receive the first instruction. Among the most promising candidates are Rudy Hultkranz, center on last year's team; Bob Sullivan, standing guard, who showed remarkable skill at placing long passes and intercepting them; Austin Grimes, occasion center; Bill Forssell, a stocky and effective guard; Bewey Fogelberg, the deadeye forward who was only deprived of a regular berth last season by the fact that Arnold Oss and Neal Arntson were of such superlative skill; Fred Becker, who was barred by ineligibility; "Newt" Doyle, Cy Olson and several other members of last year's strong freshman team.

The chief problem this season will be to develop effective forwards. Kearney, Sullivan and Hultkranz will be strong at guards and Grimes and Becker furnish splendid center material. Becker especially appeared strong last season and was a favorite for the job until ineligibility barred him. He is a hard working, fast, rangy player, full of fight and grit.

There are several prospective forwards, however, who may be relied upon to develop creditable proficiency before the season has advanced very far.

Easy For Thin People To Put On Flesh and To Gain More Weight

It's such an easy matter nowadays for thin, weak, scrawney people to put on good, healthy, solid flesh and become plump and graceful that one often wonders why there are still so many people who seem to prefer to be "all skin and bone," ungainly and unpleasant to look upon.

Physicians have long known that whoever could discover a remedy that would cause the food that one puts into the stomach to turn into good, rich, flesh-making blood instead of going to waste, would also discover how to put healthy muscular flesh onto thin, under-nourished people, and this has now been accomplished.

If you are thin, under developed, nervous, weak, or lack vigor and vitality, you can secure at any good pharmacy at moderate cost, a ten days' treatment of EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES, a new combination of flesh producing, muscle building, strength creating elements that is guaranteed to put good, solid, lasting flesh on your body and to make you strong, healthy and vigorous, or money back.

Physicians who have watched the results of the Evans' Tripie Phosphates treatment are astonished at its rapid action—often in a month five to ten pounds of desirable weight is gained. All druggists have agreed to supply readers of this paper with Evans' Tripie Phosphates and to guarantee it to do just what is claimed for it or money returned.—Advertisement.—3

LANDIS TO RULE ON RUTH IN TWO WEEKS

Chicago—Babe Ruth, baseball's home run king, will know his penalty for violating the rule against post-season barnstorming by world's series players in about two weeks, it was learned here Tuesday. Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, is now preparing his decision, it is understood.

The judge said he had seen nothing but newspaper reports of a proposed visit from Ruth to apologize for violating the rule, and in any case Ruth's apology would have no bearing on the judge's decision.

Suspension for a part of the next baseball season was reported to be under consideration as Ruth's punishment a short time ago, but Judge Landis refused to give any indication of his decision in advance of its announcement.

GOPHER HARRIERS RACE WISCONSIN SATURDAY

Minneapolis, Minn.—The University of Minnesota cross-country team will accompany the Gopher football squad when it leaves here Thursday night for Madison, where Wisconsin teams will be met in dual competition at the annual Wisconsin home-coming on Saturday.

Although Minnesota defeated the Badger cross-country runners last year by one point, Wisconsin is reported to have a strong team of runners and another close race is expected.

Arrangements have been made for a special train leaving here Friday night to carry a large number of students and the university band to the scene of Saturday's games. Other students and members of the faculty plan to make the trip in automobiles.

NEW SECT PROSPERS IN SHIPPING BUSINESS

Tokio—Japan's newest religion is the Rei-chi-gaku, or "Good-intellect-knowledge," sect, which arose recently in the neighborhood of Yokosuka and now, a few months after its foundation, owns and operates a fleet of merchant ships plying out of Kobe to China ports. The shipping company launched by the new sect is the Tenko Foko, a few weeks old, but already said to be a competitor in the China trade that is worrying the Nippon Yusen Kaisha.

The God of Yokosuka, as the founder of this sect is called, was until a few brief months ago Watanabe Kunka, who worked in the Yokosuka Naval Arsenal in the humble capacity of clerk. Not long since he launched out in the role of preacher and prophet of the Rei-chi-gaku religion, preaching a doctrine of virtue without regard to worldly gain said to have been the result of long years of intensive meditation. Soon he found himself at the head of a large number of ardent disciples and his "church" possessed a large and swelling income.

PLAN TO INVESTIGATE LIQUOR PRESCRIPTIONS

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27.—Investigation is being started by the prohibition commissioner to determine whether there are doctors in Wisconsin writing prescriptions without permit from the state. An attempt is also made to find out if some doctors are writing more prescriptions than the law allows.

Check is made through permit books which require that all druggists keep receipted lists of all prescriptions written and filled. These are being carefully arranged and gone over with a check made of each doctor and each druggist.

Thousands of prescriptions are issued in the state, the records show. While 1500 doctors have been given permits to prescribe intoxicants, a smaller number actually engages in the practice regularly, or up to the limit allowed by the law.

Milwaukee druggists are turning in the largest number of filled prescription books, their total almost equalling that for the rest of the state. In some counties in the north only one or two books of 100 prescriptions each have been returned during the four months the law has been in operation.

BANDITS ROB BANK OF $4,000; MAKE ESCAPE

Canton, Wis.—Automobile bandits who slipped unnoticed into town robbed the Farmers' State bank here of $4,000 and made a successful escape Wednesday afternoon.

The robbery was discovered at 3:30 o'clock when a patron entered the bank and failed to find an employe on duty. Search revealed that Irwin Johnson, cashier, had been sandbagged and locked in the vault.

Posse Gets on Trail

After being unconscious for several hours, Johnson was revived late Wednesday night, but was unable to give the authorities an account of the robbery. He said that his mind was a blank on the subject.

An automobile posse hurriedly organized by Sheriff J. H. Johnson of Barron, Wis., picked up the trail of an automobile that had apparently backed in front of the bank, and followed it in the general direction of Eau Claire. The trail was lost, however, on a cement road a few miles from town.

HOUSEHOLD EXPOSITION ATTRACTS BIG CROWDS

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Third Annual Food and Household exposition which is being held here has attracted thousands of Milwaukee and Wisconsin people during the past few days. Officials state there have been the largest crowds in the history of the exposition.

The full sized modern bungalow, with its trim setting in shrubs and flowers. Stucco on the outside, glazed with chipped marble, made the home stand out like a fairy palace in the huge spotlight turned on it. White window curtains and the shaded electric lamps made it seem like a real home. There was even a street number.

Entertainments are going on in different parts of the large auditorium at all times. Singers, dressed as Italian troubadours, singing the laughing song from The Beggar Prince wander among the booths. Dancers from Milwaukee schools of dancing entertain the visitors, and a large orchestra supplies the catchy popular tunes.

For every person there is some attraction—for children the advance showing of Santa Claus at the Santa Claus association, for women, the multitudinous household conveniences and furnishings, for men, the electrical devices and wireless stations.

SELL FIRM'S ASSETS TO SATISFY CLAIM

Sheboygan, Wis.—The stock, equipment and other property of the Globe Metal Products corporation of this city will be sold at public auction by Sheriff Charles Koehn on Nov. 10 for the purpose of satisfying an execution held by a local bank for the sum of $67,543.94. The amount includes money given in return for promissory notes negotiated in favor of the defendant corporation.

WOULD GIVE NEGROES ECONOMIC EQUALITY

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 27.—President Harding handled the race problem without gloves here today in an address which sounded varying chords of sentiment in a mixed crowd of several thousand whites and negroes.

Speaking at Birmingham's semi-centennial celebration, the President outlined with pointed sentences and vigorous gestures a suggested a progress of wider educational, economic and political advantages for the black race without attempt at social quality.

A great roar of applause came from the segregated Negro section of the crowd when the President declared for economic equality, and then he turned to the white section and departed from the line of his prepared manuscripts to say:

"Whether you like it or not, unless our democracy is a lie, you must stand for that equality."

OPERATORS CAST ASIDE UNION PEACE PROPOSAL

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 27.—Peace proposals of union miners of West Virginia were cast aside by counsel for the coal operators at a hearing before the senate investigating committee today. The proposals for a settlement put forward by Frank Walsh, counsel for the miners, and Phillip Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers met with a declaration from the operators that "We will have no dealings with the United Mine Workers."

"Rapids" Paper Man Is Glad He Didn't Give Up Trying

"I was on the verge of giving up work on account of my miserable health, whereas today I feel great," said Robert Holmes, well known employe of the Port Edwards Paper Co., Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Monday.

"After doctoring with several physicians without getting relief from my stomach and kidney troubles, I tried Kozak. Now I'm here to tell you that 3 bottles of this medicine did wonders for me. Before Kozak was recommended, I had no appetite, couldn't sleep and my head and back ached frequently. I'm so enthusiastic about Kozak that I can't praise it highly enough." NEW PILOTS FOR BADGER-GOPHER GAME SATURDAY

GIBSON AND BROWN BOTH REPORTED OUT; FORCED SUBSTITUTION DOES NOT HURT CARDINAL'S CHANCES

Madison, Oct. 28—As the time to select a pilot for the Wisconsin-Minnesota game nears it becomes apparent that both elevens will open the battle with new quarterbacks. Gibson is still under the care of a doctor and reports say that it is very doubtful if he will get into the Gopher game at all. His hip injured in the Illinois game, is not mending. He reports daily in uniform but is forced to watch the scrimmage and drills from the side lines.

Bollie Williams, stocky left halfback has been running the team since Gibson's injury and will undoubtedly hold the guiding hand in Saturday's game.

It is also reported that Harvey Brown, Gopher quarter, is out for a couple of weeks and won't line up against the Cardinals Saturday. Arnold Oss, mainstay of the Gopher team, is reported out for the rest of the season, so Wisconsin has probably had better than an even break as far as injuries are concerned.

Scrimmage All-Americans

Scrimmage Wednesday night resulted in the fiercest play of the week. Barr's All-Americans followed the bruised frosh. The ineligibles, however, pounded away steadily at the varisity and with the burly Holmes at fullback, smashed through several times behind the Williams' shift. Breider and "Kibo" Braman were almost always in the way, however, and held until the secondary defense shoved back the rush.

One advantage in the shift of Williams to quarter, is that Gould, smashing defensive back, will get a chance to halt any enterprising backfield man on the Gopher eleven. Gould in 1919 was conceded to be the best defensive man in the conference backfields. Horne looks to be the choice for left end. Nelson, guard, is ready to go and may see service before the game ends.

To date 25,000 tickets have been sold, according to an announcement made Wednesday at headquarters.

While indications point to a Wisconsin victory, allowances must be made as fight shown by the Gophers following their 6 to 0 victory over Indiana last Saturday. Coach Richards and his warriors are well aware of Minnesota's slow development and the team may find itself on the week-end and play a contest of which it is capable.

Bitter rivalry has existed between the institution for years and at times each ha beaten the other with inferior teams. Last year the Badgers were a much stronger aggregation, but Minnesota rose to the occasion and prevented Wisconsin from crossing its goal line. Wisconsin won the game, 3 to 0, after a terrific struggle, during which the Gophers played one of their best games of the season.

A resume of Wisconsin football will show the Badgers have a habit of playing one bad game each year. Their poor contest last season was against Ohio state. This year they showed poorly against Illinois and Badger supporters believe all their bad football for one year was shown last Saturday at Urbana. At any rate, the Badgers did not cover themselves with glory in defeating Illinois and must play better football Saturday or hundreds of Wisconsin alumni will be disappointed.

DOONAN SAYS HE ACHED ALL OVER

LOST LOTS OF TIME BECAUSE OF RHEUMATISM BUT HASN'T A SIGN OF IT LEFT NOW

"Tanlac set me right there years ago and did such a good job of it that I am still feeling fine," said Edward Doonan, 5218 Hamilton Ave., Detroit, Mich., a valved employe of the Ford Motor Car Co.

"Before I took Tanlac I felt all paibed all over with rheumatism. I had it so bad in my right arm that I was laid up for a whole week at one time. I was also bothered a lot with stomach trouble and indigestion. My appetite was very poor. I never slept well, and got up mornings more tired than on going to bed. My energy all seemed to leave me and I was easily tired out.

"My wife had been keeping up with the Tanlac testimonials and bought me two bottles of the medicine. These did me so much good that I kept right on until I had taken six and then I was in fine shape. The rheumatism vanished, my appetite came back, and all signs of indigestion left me; and I am feeling as well today as I could ask to feel. I don't believe anybody troubled like I was can take Tanlac without being helped."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING IS NOW POPULAR SPORT

EASTERN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES DEVOTING MORE THAN USUAL ATTENTION TO DISTANCE RUNNING

New York—Cross country running is proving unusually popular this fall, according to reports from eastern colleges and universities. In their long hill-and-dale grinds the harriers are receiving unprecedented support and there is promise of some excellent contests before the snow flies.

Cornell's varsity is intact and there are promising additions to the squad. The team from Ithaca which last year won the annual I. A. A. A. A. championship is again favored to win team honors. This year's race comes on Monday, November 28 and will not conflict with football. It will be run over the new six-mile local course at Van Cortlandt Park.

Besides the two Brown brothers, Cornell has on its squad P. C. Carter, Charles Irish, Dickinson and Strickler. Tom McDermott may join the harriers. K. E. Brown is the present holder of the intercollegiate two-mile championship, having covered the route in 9:22 and his brother Don is improving.

Penn State is the dark horse among the probable entrants. Penn State has Allen Helfrich, the Buffalo halfmiler; John L. Romig, winner of first place in the 1920 intercollegiate run and Ira Shields, who was runner-up to Joie Ray in American Olympic team tryouts.

Columbia has Higgins, Bob Moore, Allen Haskell, Allen Taussig, R. K. Knox, Bert Harris, Vladmir Morosoff and James Bernson working.

Princeton Veterans

Princeton which trailed Cornell by one point in 1920 has a number of veteran candidates this year. Bill Rogers, who finished third in the championship last year, Allen Swede, holder of the national intercollegiate two-mile record and Don Foresman, winner of the three-mile event in the recent Oxford-Cambridge Cornell-Princeton games are the stars.

Coach Billy Queal has a good squad to work with at Yale. Tom Campbell may come out this year; Hillis, who does the two-mile in 9:46 and Douglas, are leading Bulldog prospects.

Other institutions that have formidable cross-country teams in training this year are the College of the City of ew York, Dartmouth, Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Pennsylvania and Syracuse.

A TIMELY SONG

In the shade of the old apple tree,
Where the rain and the snow blow so free,
Is no place to store the binder and mower
And implements there that you see;
For the rust and the rot you'll agree,
Are worse than hard usage would be,
And the paint that they wore, is a shade, nothing more—
Just the shade of the old apple tree.

TWENTY HENS EQUAL ONE COW

"Twenty laying hens will makes as much profit as one dairy cow." With this text County Agent Sibloe of Marinette county, Wis., essentially a dairying county, has induced hundreds of farmers in his county to establish flocks, and he says he will have 50 to 100 hens on every farm of the 3000 in the county, before he gets through. He believes that egg money is "velvet" on a dairy farm and while dairymen usually want nothing to do with chickens, he is selling them the idea with a simple comparison quoted.—Exchange.

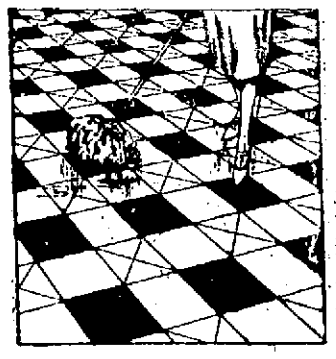
The Sanitary Floor Covering
LINOLEUM



The most sanitary and least expensive floor covering in the world is LINOLEUM. Linoleum is made in many different grades and in many cases people think they are securing the best grade and at the same time get number two grade. As you will notice, we described each grade by number, assuring you that you can get just the grade you desire. There is several reasons why Linoleum is the cheapest and most sanitary floor covering.

FIRST: It has no cracks to catch the dust like wood floors.
SECOND: It is easy to keep clean.
THIRD: It is germ proof as the oxidized linseed oil that linoleum is made from kills all germs.
FOURTH: It costs less than hard wood floors, wears as good, looks better and is softer to walk on.

We have a complete stock of all grades from the heavy Battleship to the light weight printed quality. Note the following prices:
